

*Transitional Programs handles all undergraduate student withdrawals. The Graduate School and Law School will only handle their student withdrawals before the semester begins.

The Registration Office handles all withdrawals that take place during the semester. Also, any adds for undergraduate students that are past the add deadline (within the semester deadline only) are handled by Registration. The Graduate School and Law School will handle adds for their students when they are past the add deadline (within semester deadline only). This process must be completed before any grades are issued.
